

Time management

- ❖ It refers to the way you plan and organize your time during the day and on specific activities; if you feel like there is never enough time to get everything done or insufficient time for what you want to do, then you may benefit from a time management coaching session; here are a few things to consider:

